EDUCATE yourself through training opportunities

Career Exploration – Check out the occupational profiles on the projected high-wage and high-demand occupations. Be sure there is a good job for you at the end of your training.

Paid Work Experience – Businesses can train you for the specific skills, methods, and work habits needed on the job. Many on-the-job trainings results in permanent employment.

National Career Readiness Certificate – See if you have the essential workplace skills needed for success. This credential measures your aptitude in applied math, locating information, and reading for information.

Job Search Assistance – Your workforce experts can help you search over 14,000 job openings, show you how to network, and find the hidden job market.

Resume and Cover Letter Development – Professionals can assist in polishing your resume and cover letter so they are tailored to the specific job.

Interview Preparation – Mock interviews are a fantastic way to practice answering questions and getting constructive feedback on how to conduct yourself.

Tuition Assistance – If a post-secondary education is a financial burden to your family, the Workforce Investment Act can help eligible young adults ages 14 to 21 with the costs of tuition, fees, and books.
